THE FORMER ARMORY OF BRIG

The armory in Brig was built about 100 years ago by the Swiss army. During its most busy days it employed up to 60 people who supplied troops and maintained nearby military facilities.

After acquiring the property, Brig-Glis converted it to a cultural center in 2009. While the adjoining buildings are rented out, over 2'400 m² of the main building are used as rehearsal rooms, dance stages, rooms for assemblies, events and even a bistro.

The former armory is now conducted by the association «Zeughaus Kultur».
